Yesterday's Cabinet Meeting.

The session of the cabinet meeting yesterday was very brief, not lasting over half an hour. No question of public interest was brought up for consideration; in fact, nothing but ordinary routine departmental matters were considered. The Chinese proclamation, contrary to general expectation, was not even alluded to. In this connection it may be stated on undoubted authority that the president will not issue the proclamation until the pending investigation with regard to Chinese discrimination against United States vessels is concluded and shows conclusively that no discriminating tonnage or impost duties are levied upon United States vessels by the Chinese government.

The president informed the cabinet that he would leave Washington on Thursday to visit the Pacific coast; consequently yesterday was the last cabinet meeting which will be held until after his return. He will probably be absent until about November 1.

Hyattsville.

On Monday evening the Garfield and Arthur club of Hyattsville listened to an entertaining speech by Judge Noah of the war department. The committee on speakers and meetings reported that they had secured Secretary Sherman to address the mass meeting to be held about the 29th prox. Other speakers of national and state reputation and the political clubs and associations of the district are to be invited. One of the largest religious gatherings ever witnessed in Prince George's county is confidently anticipated. Professor Rogers will be present at the next regular meeting.

CENSUS OF REGISTERED BONDHOLDERS.

A Tribute to Treasury Bookkeeping.

The democratic organ is so eager to fling mud and calumnies upon every official that it criticizes falsely in setting forth the more plainly that any change of public servants would be a loss to the country. Possibly it has never given so good an opportunity to prove the efficiency and care which prevail in the treasury department as in the paragraph which yesterday it published in regard to the "census of bondholders." It said:

The census clerks now engaged at the treasury in compiling statistics with reference to the amount and number of bonds held by individuals have brought to light a number of interesting facts in connection with the census of bondholders. There are records of the bonds held by each state and territory, and the amount of bonds held by each individual. The census clerks have also compiled a list of the names of the bondholders, and the amount of bonds held by each. The census clerks have also compiled a list of the names of the bondholders, and the amount of bonds held by each.

Below is the reply of the census bureau, which will be published in the treasury department. The census clerks have also compiled a list of the names of the bondholders, and the amount of bonds held by each. The census clerks have also compiled a list of the names of the bondholders, and the amount of bonds held by each.

The wealth, debt and taxation division of the tenth census began an investigation to ascertain the ownership of the registered bonds of the United States, which have been placed at the disposal of the superintendent of the tenth census. The examination in progress when completed will show where the bonds of the United States are held, and how much in each state and territory.

To relieve any apprehension which might otherwise be felt as to the accuracy of the treasury records, it may be stated that the names of the holders are not known even to the clerks engaged in the work, but only the amount of the bonds held by each. It is expected that the report, when made, will correct a misapprehension quite current—namely, that the bulk of the debt is in the hands of a few large bondholders. The number of persons who hold bonds in small amounts is surprising.

THE NEW POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

Arrival of Hon. Horace Maynard—Judge Key's Plans.

Among those following were a goodly number of knights in carriages, who, owing to the intense heat, did not move with their usual promptness. The procession was very brilliant, and was heartily cheered on the route.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Meeting of the Supreme Lodge of the World at St. Louis.

Statistics of the Order—Another Grand Pageant Seriously Marred by the Heat.

St. Louis, Aug. 24.—Several new divisions and lodges of Knights of Pythias arrived this morning and were escorted to their quarters by local lodges. The city has put on holiday attire. All the hotels are handsomely decorated with flags and the colors of different divisions, festoons of different stuffs of the colors of the order, overgarments and devices of various kinds. The supreme lodge of the world was escorted to Old Fellows' hall at half-past 9 o'clock this morning. After being received by the grand lodge of the state with formal and imposing ceremonies held on such occasions, the supreme lodge went into regular session. After the supreme lodge had reached Old Fellows' hall and been formally received by the grand lodge of the state, the grand chancellor of the state, W. P. Randolph, delivered a brief speech of welcome to the city and a proffer of its hospitality, to which the supreme chancellor, D. B. Woodruff, made response. The supreme lodge then went into regular session, and Supreme Chancellor Woodruff, after a very much curtailed address, touching upon many points of interest to the order and making recommendations, the chief of which, perhaps, was a thorough division of the endowment feature. The report of the Grand Lodge of the state, which was also read. This shows a decrease in membership in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Georgia, Nevada and Ontario of 3,000 members, while the other twenty-seven jurisdictions show an aggregate gain of 4,672 members, making a net gain for the year 1879 of 1,672. Some jurisdictions, however, show a decrease in membership, all of them show a decided financial improvement. The capital of lodges has greatly increased. The amount paid for relief during the past two fiscal years is $477,781. This has been done by the grand lodge, which 5,200 members divided among 1,100 lodges. The receipts for the two past fiscal years, ending July 31, 1879, have been $411,365, and the balance in the treasury is $13,557. The amount contributed to the relief of sufferers in 1878 was $8,833. The number of members in the order December 31, 1879, was 57,715. The number of unaffiliated members is about 120,000. After the presentation of reports and the transaction of unimportant business the lodge adjourned until morning. Preparations were then made for the grand parade.

THE GRAND PARADE.

and by 2 p. m. the streets were thronged with spectators. A start was not made, however, until half-past 4. In the line were the mounted police, Colonel A. L. VIRGINIA CHIVALRY.

Happy Intervention of a Policeman.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 24.—For several days past vague rumors have prevailed here that a correspondence was going on between two well-known citizens which might culminate in a hostile meeting, but last evening it was reported that the correspondence had terminated in an amicable adjustment of the difficulty between the parties. This morning, however, the affair was reported to have assumed a different aspect, and upon the strength of this report warrants were issued for the arrest of the alleged principals, Dr. George Lee Johnston, son of United States Senator Johnston and nephew of General Joe B. Johnston, and Captain John S. Wise, son of the late Governor Henry A. Wise, on the charge of being about to engage in a breach of peace. Dr. Johnston was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning and taken before a magistrate and bailed in $2,000 for his appearance at the police court to-morrow. Captain Wise has not yet been arrested. The difficulty is said to have arisen from the fact that Dr. Johnston, wintering at John S. Wise's home, was present for membership in the Westmoreland club, which is composed of many of the best of the aristocracy of the state, and while the high social and social standing, he was blackballed with considerable unanimity. This action of the club was generally known and freely discussed, various reasons being assigned for the action. "We have heard from Robert to-day. He is four months off, and will be here on the 24th instant. We are all well, and are collecting money for the relief of the colored people. We are all well off for supplies here. The enemy threw shells into the city occasionally and kept up a fire against the ramparts with sharpshooters, but did little harm.

What Way? Inquired theophile.

"Why, for Garfield, of course. The republicans are absolutely outcasted. When we can say from Columbus, after the soldiers' election, a vote was taken on the train and it stood for Garfield, it is all over for Hancock."

They were all soldiers though," said the theophile.

"True, there were many soldiers among them, but the democrats say Hancock was elected by the soldiers' vote."
